To whom it may concern

Since 1986, we have become nationally and internationally known thru previous retail and mail order contacts. Over the last five years, we began our website, uncratedrhino.com. Our website soon became known to all rhino collectors alike. Obtaining website designers, hosting companies and other services over the years, Jim Phillips has brought the help and assistance we've needed for our website concerns. Based on first personally having known Jim, the ability to drive our website further to the top of any search engine has been phenomenal. Since 9/11 became such a detriment for all websites, Jim has given back to us our momentum. Using photos, color and reorganization on our site we have been able to keep our visitors and customers longer on our pages. Jim gets our vote of confidence on any and all of his future projects. Representing many worldwide non-profit organizations we are all extremely grateful to Jim in aiding our mission and cause to 'saving rhinos, one species at a time'
